MacArthur Army Takes 3 Philippine Beachheads

By LEE VAN ATTA

GEN. MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS IN THE PHILIPPINES, Oct. 20 (INS)—The American flag flew again today in the Philippines, brought back by an American invasion army under the personal command of Gen. Douglas MacArthur, who fulfilled his promise, "I shall return." The mightiest ocean-going armada in history landed tens of thousands of American doughboys on Leyte island, approximately 300 miles south of Manila.

Only light initial resistance was encountered as the liberating Yanks swarmed onto the beaches and casualties during the first phases of the battle were officially described as "small."

The invasion caught the Japs completely off balance. They had expected that MacArthur would land somewhere on the coast of Mindanao, southernmost of the Philippines. But again he outguessed them and fooled them, just as he had on numerous other occasions when he began his long march back to the Philippines from the southern tip of New Guinea.

He did not inch his way back. He leap-frogged the Japs time and time again. He leap-frogged them at Mindanao by landing his forces at Leyte, a strategic central Philippine island between the main island of Luzon and Mindanao.

The first Philippine landings were made on two small islands, Dinagat and Homonhon, three days ago—exactly two years and six months from the day when MacArthur vowed:

"I shall return."

The landings were at San Ricardo, three miles south of Tacloban between San Jose and Dulag and at Panaon.

These initial landings secured enemy installations and commanded the entrance to Leyte gulf for the passage of the main assault forces which stormed ashore at three points at 1 a. m. today on the eastern Leyte coast.

Up to noon today there had been no effort by the Japs to interfere with the invasion with submarines, planes or warships.

The Jap navy made no attempt whatsoever to contest the landings which were executed with split-second precision. Only one Jap plane, a twin-engine bomber, appeared over Leyte's beaches and it dropped only one bomb and that fell harmlessly without causing any damage.

"Our ground troops are rapidly expanding their positions, and supplies and heavy equipment are already flowing ashore in great volume," said MacArthur's momentous communique, the first from his new headquarters in the Philippines.

Australian forces also are participating in the invasion which was preceded by terrific naval and air bombardments which were officially described in the communique as "devastating in effect."

The naval forces supporting the invasion comprise Vice-Adm. Thomas C. Kinkaid's Seventh Fleet, units of Adm. William F. Halsey's Third Fleet and Vice-Adm. Marc A. Mitscher's vast Task Force 38.

The big Navy battlewagons and

200,000 Land in Philippines

More than 200,000 men landed in the Philippines from the greatest transport fleet in history, it was estimated from dispatches filed by correspondents. Without actually disclosing the figures, the correspondents suggested that more men had gone ashore on the initial day of the campaign than had landed on D-Day in Normandy. In that invasion, almost a quarter of a million men landed on the coast of France.

Cruisers laid down a thunderous barrage of 16-inch shells, while hundreds of bomber and fighter planes raked Leyte before the American doughboys shoved ashore aboard hundreds of invasion craft.

It was the greatest concentration of naval and air power ever massed in the Pacific.

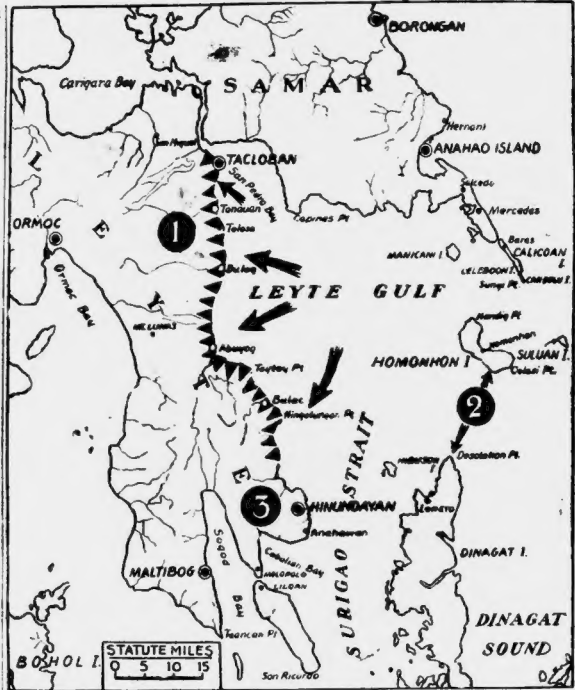

The invasion forces already have secured Tacloban in the north-eastern part of Leyte, suffering only small casualties.

The American doughboys already are pushing into the interior from their invasion beaches along the eastern coast of Leyte.

The mighty ocean-going armada set out from New Guinea for Leyte just one week ago today on Friday the 13th, and it sailed to its target completely unopposed.

Leyte is 600 miles north of Morotai, where MacArthur once again outguessed the Japs, and 2500 miles from Milne Bay, at the southern tip of New Guinea, where MacArthur started his march back to the Philippines nearly 16 months ago.

Enemy forces in the Philippines against which the invasion was launched comprise the Fourteenth Army group under command of Field Marshal Count Juichi Trauchi. They total 225,000 troops, MacArthur's communique announced that several divisions of the enemy forces already have been identified as the 16th, the 25th, the 30th, the 100th, the 102nd, the 103rd and the 104th.

The American invasion of Leyte island in the Philippines struck along the eastern coast of the island, hitting just below Tacloban (1) from San Ricardo to Palo, while another force landed further south near Dulag. These landings followed others made on the south side of Homonhon island and the northern tip of Dinagat island (2), securing the entrance to the bay. The Japs reported that landings had been made in the Cabalan area (3) near the southern tip of Leyte. MacArthur's communique indicated that the American Sixth Army had made landings with little opposition.

Airplane View of Leyte

(Editor's Note: Almost three weeks ago INS Staff Correspondent Lee Van Atta flew aboard an American Liberator bomber which surveyed the area where Philippine landing operations have taken place. In this delayed dispatch Van Atta describes the work of the reconnaissance forces.)

By LEE VAN ATTA

ABOARD LIBERATOR BOMBER RETURNING FROM PHILIPPINES, Oct. 2 (delayed) (INS)—American airmen have just fought through two equatorial storm fronts and the middle of a seething 50-mile-an-hour gale to get a brief reconnaissance impression of the Leyte gulf in the central Philippines.

Less than three weeks from now by the time this dispatch appears in print—the peaceful but storm-ridden country viewed today from the cockpit of this long-range reconnaissance plane will be the scene of the first battle for the liberation of the Philippines.

The airplane, piloted by the skilled Southwest Pacific air veteran, Lt. Col. Alex Guerry of Seaview, Tenn., and Lt. George Gathers, Jr., of Lookaba, Okla., is one of many so-called "snooper" bombers of the famed "Hawkeyes" unit which braved the weather and enemy fighters to gain a day-to-day record, photographically and visually, to enable American forces to get set for the latest drive.

The flight involved a journey of more than 2000 nautical miles. Equatorial storm fronts were battled along the whole dangerous route.

Adding the quick impressions gained today to the vivid eyewitness pictures told by other crews a pretty complete description of the battleground setting was put together.

"It isn't a bit like New Guinea," remarked T-Sgt. Johnny Able of Myrtle Beach, S. C., the ship's ball turret gunner. "It's like—well, like—," he went on, only to be interrupted by the nose gunner, S-Sgt. Robert Humphreys, Atlanta, Ga., who quipped, "like Kansas, or maybe the lowlands of France or Belgium or Holland."

The beachhead, they decided, looking at that 70-mile stretch between Tacloban on the north down to Dulag on the south, is about what the South Seas should be like but usually aren't.

There is a big, sandy strip along that beach peninsula where guerrillas says planes can land at low tide. There are undulating plains, rolling gently toward Leyte gulf and blending neatly with the usually turquoise waters.

But, above all, in Guerry's estimation, "things just look clean."

There are neat villages, European-style houses — not grass shacks — line their streets. Finely cut farmlands stretch as far as the eye can see — perhaps 80 to 100 miles.

Instead of jungle trails like the fliers saw in Papua, Buna or Hollandia during their New Guinea days, excellent motor highways ribbon across the landscape.

Sweeping coconut and pineapple plantations command a view over the low country and Tacloban and Dulag — plantations nestled in the foothills of the western mountain range.

The mountains are in contrast to those in New Guinea. They lack the rugged savagery of Oceania's myriad volcanic crests.

Towns and villages abound and slice off the sprawling squared sections of farmland.

T-Sgt. William Fahrenhold of Pittsburgh claimed he could "almost make out the shopping districts," in one of the larger towns when he flew over at 1000-foot altitude two days ago. "Hell, there's even a Red Cross building there," he reported, with some little pleasure in his voice.

The whole impression you get, in fact, is that Gen. MacArthur's forces are getting themselves out of the steamy jungle and into a country where marksmanship and maneuvering is the basis for fighting.

President Congratulates MacArthur

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20 (AP)—Text of "the President's congratulations to Gen. MacArthur:"

The whole American nation today exults at the news that the gallant men under your command have landed on Philippine soil. I know well what this means to you. I know what it cost you to obey my order that you leave Corregidor in February, 1942, and proceed to Australia.

Since then you have planned and worked and fought with whole-souled devotion for the day when you would return with powerful forces to the Philippine Islands. That day has come. You have the nation's gratitude and the nation's prayers for success as you and your men fight your way back to Bataan.

MacArthur's Message To Filipinos: 'I Have Returned'

By the Associated Press

"I have returned," Gen. Douglas MacArthur told the Filipino people in a broadcast today calling upon them to "rise and strike" the Japanese.

Here is the text of his broadcast over the "Voice of Freedom" radio, as reported by the Office of War Information:

"This is the Voice of Freedom, Gen. MacArthur speaking:

"People of the Philippines: I have returned. By the grace of Almighty God, our forces stand again on Philippine soil—soil consecrated in the blood of our two peoples. We have come, dedicated and committed, to the task of destroying every vestige of enemy control over your daily lives, and of restoring, upon a foundation of indestructible strength, the liberties of your people.

"At my side is your President, Sergio Osmeña, worthy successor of that great patriot, Manuel Quezon, with members of his cabinet. The seat of your government is now therefore firmly re-established on Philippine soil.

"The hour of your redemption is here. Your patriots have demonstrated an unswerving and resolute devotion to the principles of freedom that challenges the best that is written on the pages of human history. I now call upon your supreme effort that the enemy may know from the temper of an aroused and outraged people within that he has a force there to contend with no less violent than is the force committed from without.

"Hail to me, Let the indomitable spirit of Bataan and Corregidor lead on. As the lines of battle roll forward to bring you within the zone of operations, rise and strike! Strike at every favorable opportunity. For your homes and hearths, strike! For future generations of your sons and daughters, strike! In the name of your sacred dead, strike! Let no heart be faint. Let every arm be steered. The guidance of Divine God points the way. Follow in His name to the holy trail of righteousness victory!"

Pacific Communique

Gen. MacArthur's headquarters gave out this communique on action in the Philippines:

In a major amphibious operation we have seized the eastern coast of Leyte island in the Philippines 600 miles north of Moroto and 2500 miles from Milne Bay from whence our offensive started nearly 16 months ago.

This point of entry in the Visayas is midway between Luzon and Mindanao and at one stroke splits in two the Japanese forces in the Philippines. The enemy's anticipation of attack in Mindanao caused him to be caught unawares in Leyte and beachheads in the Tacloban area were secured with small casualties.

The landing was preceded by heavy naval and air bombardments which were devastating in effect. Our ground troops are rapidly extending their positions and supplies and heavy equipment are already flowing ashore in great volume.

The troops comprise elements of the Sixth United States Army, to which are attached units from the central Pacific with supporting elements. The naval forces consist of the Seventh United States fleet, the Australian squadron and supporting elements of the Third United States fleet.

Air support was given by Navy carrier forces, the Far East Air Force and the Royal Australian Air Force.

The commander-in-chief is in personal command of the operation.

The enemy's forces of an estimated 225,000 include the 14th Army Group, under command of Field Marshal Count Terachi, of which seven divisions have already been identified. The 26th, 28th, 30th, 100th, 102nd, 103rd and 101th.

The strategic result of capturing the Philippines will be decisive. The enemy's so-called greater East Asia co-prosperity sphere will be cut in two. His conquered empire to the south, comprising the Dutch East Indies and the British possessions of Borneo, Malaya and Burma, will be severed from Japan proper. The great flow of transportation and supply upon which Japan's vital war industry depends will be cut, as will the counter-supply of his forces. To the south a half million men will be cut off without hope of support and with ultimate destruction at the leisure of the Allies, a certainty in broad strategic conception.

The defensive line of the Japanese which extends along the east of Asia from the Japan islands, through Formosa, the Philippines, the East Indies to Singapore and Burma will be pierced in the center, permitting an envelopment to the south, and to the north either flank will be vulnerable and can be rolled up at will.

Eyewitnesses Tell Of Leyte Landings

By DEAN SCHEDLER

WITH MACARTHUR at Leyte, Philippines, Oct. 20 (AP)—Under cover of devastating fire from Allied warships, American troops, knifed ashore on Leyte island today, striking simultaneously at three points along the eastern beaches.

One assault force struck the beach from San Ricardo, approximately three miles south of the main city of Tacloban, to Palo. Another strong force struck along the coastlines between San Jose and Dulag, and a combat team landed at Panason on the southern tip of Leyte.

The beach fronts are three and a half miles in width and approximately 11 miles apart.

This quick, hard drive into the heart of the southern Philippines establishes American forces only 275 statute miles from Cebu and 340 air miles from Manila.

At the entrance to Leyte gulf, an American combat team landed three days ago on the northern tip of Dinagat island and the southern portion of Homonhon to take over enemy installations and establish command of the entrance to the gulf for the main assault forces.

The bug landings were made along the level coastal Leyte valley. Unopposed by Japan's Navy, American battleships and American and Australian cruisers laid a thunderous fire along the beaches.

As the heavy naval fire raised a cloud of cordite and huge columns of smoke, carrier-based planes from Adm. Halsey's Third Fleet and Adm. Thomas Kincaid's Seventh Fleet bombed and strafed the beach. Hellcats and Avengers patrolled the sky.

It was only minutes before the few salvos of 16-inch shells increased into a continuous barrage which echoed and reechoed across San Pedro Bay.

Tons and tons of explosives ripped into the coastal area along the beach, augmented by close-in shore fire from rocket-firing craft.

With brazen boldness, great battalions worked slowly along the shore as their guns cracked round after round over the heads of crouching infantrymen.

This invasion armada of hundreds of ships goes busily about the business of landing troops and equipment on the smoke-filled shore under protection of surface and air power so far unmolested.

By GORDON WALKER

WITH GEN. MACARTHUR'S TROOPS in the Philippines, Oct. 20 (by radio) (INS)—This long-awaited attack on the Philippines is without a doubt the most incredible invasion of this war.

I have just come from a trip with one of the invasion ships here in the central Philippines. Through glasses I watched tens of thousands of American doughboys plunge into the black smoke which still crowds the two full landing beaches on Leyte island.

Right now out there in front of us they are pushing swiftly into the interior of the enemy's defenses.

Preliminary reports state that our casualties have been unbelievably low.

The most amazing part of this invasion is the fact that up to this time, when the troops waded ashore, the enemy had made no attempt to interfere with this gravest threat to their conquered empire.

For days huge convoys of ships converged from dozens of American forward bases scattered over the central and southwest Pacific. Last night they rendezvoused off the central Philippines, and with the first crack of dawn, hundreds of ships of every type began filing slowly through the entrance of Leyte gulf.

On the upper deck, steel helmets and life preservers were ready for the expected enemy attack. It didn't come. Shortly after dawn, a single twin-engine enemy bomber winged down through a terrific anti-aircraft barrage and dropped a single bomb comically into the water. Then the enemy bomber itself plunged into a watery grave.

But this couldn't really be called an attack. It was hardly aggressive. Of course, enemy aircraft may sweep in over the mountains here at any minute. Tonight after dark they are almost sure to make some sort of attack on the hundreds of ships milling around up here in the gulf.

There may be tough days ahead before Gen. MacArthur leads his troops down the streets of Manila. But up to now the combined skill of the American Army and Navy in the Pacific has caught the enemy completely off balance. The American flag flies once again on her Filipino soil.

RED FRONT—Red troops were reported several miles inside East Prussia today. Arrows indicate progress of their push, which includes the capture of Eydkau, a border town.

RUSSIANS STAB PRUSSIA LINE

LONDON, Oct. 20 (AP)—Berlin announced today the Russians had moved up to another section of the East Prussian frontier 20 miles south of fallen Eydkau, massing vast tank forces in the Rominter Heide, a favorite deer forest of the late Kaiser Wilhelm II.

Enemy broadcasts also said the Germans had evacuated Hungary's sprawling third city of Debrecen, 116 miles east of Budapest.

Dispatches telephoned from Moscow reported chaotic conditions in Belgrade and Budapest.

Moscow reported further large-scale successes in Czechoslovakia, Transylvania, Hungary and Yugoslavia.

Allies in New Antwerp Drive

By ALEX H. SINGLETON

LONDON, Oct. 20 (AP)—Canadian infantry and armor struck out in a new offensive through the mud and marshland north of Antwerp today to bolster the Allied powerhouse salient being built up in Holland against Hitler's northern defenses.

At the same time French infantry fighting along the ridges of the Vosges at the southern end of the Allied line outflanked the village of Ventron at the entrance to the 15-mile-long Bussang Pass which opens out on the Rhine floor only seven miles from Mulhouse.

The Americans of the Seventh Army on the latter front also captured Bruyeres, 13 miles east of Epinal, in a further stab at two more passes leading through the Vosges to the Rhine floodlands around Colmar and Strassbourg.

The First U. S. Army, holding more than half of Aachen, struggled slowly through mountains of debris in an effort to extinguish the last sparks of resistance in that besieged line city.

The British Second Army, fighting to clear out the Germans west of the Maas (Meuse) along the Reich border fronting the Holland salient, made slow progress, almost bogged down by mud, and stiff German resistance.

The Canadian attack was launched from an area eight miles north of Antwerp along the railroad and highway leading north to Rosendaal and Rotterdam.

Rocket-firing Typhoons and fighter bombers supported the drive. In the first few hours the Canadians rolled forward several miles.

Dewey to Rap One-Man Rule

By JACK BELL

EN ROUTE WITH DEWEY TO PITTSBURGH, Oct. 20 (AP)—The presidential campaign appeared to have reached the free-for-all stage today as Gov. Dewey prepared a new attack in a Pittsburgh speech tonight on what he has called President Roosevelt's one-man government and the President readied an answer.

Scheduled to arrive at Pittsburgh at noon, the Republican nominee made last-hour revisions of an address Paul Lockwood, his secretary, said would deal with "what happens to free labor under personal, one-man government and what labor in America has a right to look forward to under a new administration."

This forecast the same sort of rolling barrage that the New York governor laid down against the New Deal Administration in his Wednesday night indictment in New York city of President Roosevelt's handling of foreign affairs.

And there were indications the President would counterattack briskly in a speech Saturday night at a dinner there of the Foreign Policy Ass'n.

In a speech designed not only to appeal for labor support in his campaign against a fourth term but to hold strongly for Pennsylvania's 35 electoral votes, Dewey is expected to promise the union direct representation in the Cabinet and the consolidation of governmental functions affecting them in the Labor Department.

At Charleston, W. Va., the Republican nominee said in a major speech recently that the Republicans are "pledged to full support of the guarantees of free, collective bargaining through the National Labor Relations act and to restore freedom from government dictation to labor in this country."

As in New York, the two candidates will cross campaign trails in Pennsylvania. The President will speak Oct. 27 in Philadelphia.

The pattern of Roosevelt rebuttal appearances, at least in the populous Eastern states, appeared likely to be carried into Massachusetts in the final week.

With Dewey scheduled to speak in Boston Nov. 1, the White House announced that the President also would make a political address there. The most likely date for his speech is Nov. 4, the same night Dewey will talk at a Republican rally in Madison Square Garden.

There was undisguised glee among the traveling Dewey followers today that the President had elected to take to the hustings.

Building Materials Still Restricted

A warning that recently relaxed regulations do not mean unrestricted freedom of building materials today was given by John M. Debbis, New England regional representative of the NIRA.

"We said any new housing permitted in this section will be chiefly to relieve congestion in war production areas and to relieve cases of individual hardship or provide accommodations for returning veterans."

American Pressman Killed in Action

Pvt. William F. Hofmann, Jr., 20, of Greenley rd., Jamaica Plain, former pressman employee of the Record-American-Sunday Advertiser, was killed Sept. 23 in action in France, the War Department notified his parents today.

A graduate of Boston Trade School, he was employed by these papers for more than a year prior to entering the Army in February.

Saltonstall Opens Battle To Carry State for Dewey

By FRANK REILLY

Attacking the association of Communist leaders with the New Deal, Gov. Saltonstall opened the fight to carry Massachusetts for Gov. Dewey in the coming presidential election.

"Let us remember that Earl Browder, head of the Communist Party in America, is daily proclaiming that the re-election of President Roosevelt is essential," the governor declared in addresses at Mansfield and Canton.

"Right here in Massachusetts the Communist candidate for governor in the past three elections is not running for office but is supporting the Democratic candidates."

In his appeal for Dewey's election, the governor also urged support for Lt.-Gov. Horace T. Cahill as his successor. Cahill was in Worcester today to join the entourage of Clare Boothe Luce in her Dewey-for-President sweep through the state while his Democratic opponent, Mayor Tobin, was on a two-day tour of Berkshire County.

The lieutenant governor will speak tonight at the Republican rally in Worcester and will then accompany the Connecticut leader to Boston where he will address a gathering in Mechanics Building tomorrow evening.

Mayor Tobin today was to speak at meetings of his supporters in six Berkshire County towns and this evening will appear at rallies in Adams and North Adams. Earlier meetings today were scheduled in Cheshire, Williamstown, Clarkburg, Lenoxborough, New Ashford and Florida.

Tomorrow the Mayor will meet with Tobin campaign committees in nine other Berkshire towns, and in the evening will speak at rallies in Pittsfield and Great Barrington.

His daylight meetings will be in Lenox, Lee, Dalton, Stockbridge, Washington, Mt. Washington, Peru, and Hinsdale.

Lt. Gov. Cahill declared that under the present Republican administration on Beacon Hill the office of lieutenant governor took on activity and importance not previously associated with that position.

"As lieutenant governor I have been an active worker in shaping policies of the State administration, in planning programs for the public good and in carrying them out," he said.

"I hold to that concept for my successor in office and for that reason urge the people of Massachusetts to elect Dist. Atty. Robert F. Bradford of Middlesex County as lieutenant governor Nov. 7."

Hurricane Diminishing

CHARLESTON, S. C., Oct. 20 (AP)—A tropical hurricane which killed at least 26 persons and caused untold property damage in Florida and Cuba apparently was diminishing in force today as it moved northward along the Atlantic coast.

A Washington weather bureau bulletin located the center of the storm about 40 miles east-southeast of Columbia, S. C., moving north-northeastward at 20 miles an hour. It was expected to reach Raleigh, N. C., by mid-afternoon. Gales were ordered lowered at sunrise and hurricane flags were to be replaced by storm warnings from Savannah to Charleston.

Hurricane warnings remain from Charleston to Pamlico sound and the Norfolk area in Virginia.

Related reports from Havana, where the hurricane first struck, said 24 persons were killed in western Cuba and the coastal port of Surgidero de Batabano was destroyed.

Bricker Again Hits Deal Tieup with Hillman, Reds

FRESNO, Cal., Oct. 20 (AP)—Governor Bricker, Republican vice presidential nominee, headed eastward today after winding up his six-day tour of California with a speech at Fresno last night in which he charged the Roosevelt Administration with espousing the "Communist front in the person of Sidney Hillman."

In talks earlier in the day, Bricker reportedly brought up Hillman's name and charged the chairman of the Political Action Committee is the "most dangerous and subversive force in American politics."

In his formal Fresno address, Bricker predicted California's 20 electoral votes would help the Republican ticket into the presidency Nov. 7. He again stressed charges of Governor Dewey that the Roosevelt Administration plans to keep men in the Army instead of providing civilian jobs for them.

"The New Dealers are now beginning the radio networks night after night in a desperate effort to square themselves on this issue," Bricker declared.

Congressman Claims Gag On Pearl Harbor Report

ST. PAUL, Oct. 20 (AP)—Charges were made last night by Cong. Melvin J. Masch (R.) of Minnesota, that a new report on the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor, prepared by a naval board of inquiry set up by congressional order, has been withheld from the public.

Rep. Masch, speaking before the Business and Professional Men's Ass'n, said he intended to "force publication of this report before election if it is possible to do so."

"There is no element of military security involved in this matter," Rep. Masch said. "The naval board report would be politically embarrassing to the attack that Pearl Harbor and the Philippines were to be attacked, and the hour at which the attack was to take place."

Cadet Nurses Bring Cheer to Wounded

By ALICE BISSELL

In a darkened room at Chelsea Naval Hospital today lay a wounded British sailor, his eyes covered with heavy bandages.

Tomorrow George Card, 26, a veteran of all the grimness of war, will have the bandages removed.

If he sees, it means he sees for the rest of his life. If he doesn't see, it means that the operation with a 50-50 chance has failed, and he will never see again.

"But I have seen a lot of things as I lay here in the dark," he said today with a smile for whichever way the chips might fall.

"I've learned the value in life of help and kindness. A quiet voice. A laugh. Patience. A word of hope. The word 'good-morning'."

The sailor was speaking of Betty Humphries, 22, the U. S. Cadet Nurse who has cared for him since his operation.

She is one of 40 members of the U. S. Cadet Nurse Corps who are taking their last six months of nurse's training at the Navy Hospital. These girls, most of them in their early twenties, supplement the staff of regular Navy nurses caring for our wounded men.

Seaman Max Dunlap, 27, of West Virginia, is far from home. A coal miner before he joined the Navy, the gunner could face the torpedoing of his merchant ship in the channel, but he found it hard to face life again.

"Here the cadet nurses have brought me care and concern just like home. It isn't only what they do. It's their presence when we are so down," he said.

Lambert Hater, 20, a metal-smith, got tangled up with a blimp as it landed. He also knows what it's like to have hope again because of a good and faithful nurse like Lorraine Dion, 21, a cadet from Vermont.

The cadets themselves give credit for their compliments to their teachers and guardians at the hospital. Lts. (j.g.) Esther Schmidt and Catherine Meredith, Navy nurses in charge of the corps.

"And who wouldn't try to give their best to these boys?" asked 21-year-old Cadet Anne Cook. She was gazing solemnly down a ward where our country's young men lay tortured on beds

Somerville Stab Victim Defends Accused Wife

"She's not to blame. It's just a family affair."

With that statement, Edward Carlin, 33, of Village ter., Somerville, in critical condition at Central Hospital, Somerville, with three knife wounds in his chest, today sought to absolve his wife, Marion, 32, held by police on charges she inflicted the wounds.

She pleaded not guilty in Somerville court to a charge of assault and battery with a dangerous weapon and Judge Charles F. Gadsby ordered her held in $2500 bonds for hearing Oct. 26.

Carlin, unaware that his wife was being arraigned in Somerville court, constantly asked if she had visited him. He told Police Inspector Harry Roche there had been a quarrel over money before the alleged attack.

At police headquarters, Mrs. Carlin, mother of three children, was bewildered by the tragic events which had lodged her in a jail cell and sent her husband to the hospital.

Both hospital and police officials were baffled by the situation, claiming that Carlin and his wife were "madly in love with each other."

Police said Carlin was found lying on the kitchen floor bleeding from severe knife wounds. They charged Mrs. Carlin at-

2 Thugs In $50,000 Lynn Holdup Hunted

Two Lynn inspectors were busy on a secret mission today while other officers checked fingerprints found on an armored car, from which two overall-garbed* and masked men stole a $50,000 payroll in the city's biggest holdup.

While reluctant to discuss the case, police officials indicated suspicion was directed toward persons familiar with the procedure in which the payroll, destined for the Bethlehem-Hingham shipyard, was handled from the time it was taken from the bank until the shipyard workers were paid.

The truck, owned by the Bonded Transport Co., was looted in an Essex st. garage and the hold-up men fled with the money after binding Ernest Hanson, 41, night watchman at the garage, with wire.

The victim told police the men surprised him in the garage and prodded him with guns to a huge safe, ordering him to unlock it and hand over the payroll.

Professing to not know the combination, Hanson was doing all right until they noticed his keys and turned their attention to the armored truck, set to leave for Hingham with a payroll which had been drawn the previous afternoon from a Lynn bank.

The gunmen disdained bags of silver coins after scooping up bags of bills. They then tied Hanson with wire and left with a warning for him to keep quiet.

He shouted for help and soon was freed by persons passing the garage. He described the holdup men as about 25 years old and heavily masked.

Police said the company operates an armored car service and is owned by Patrolman Robert T. Frary, brother of Baron William Frary von Blomberg, who 11 years ago was adopted in the courts by Baroness Adelhard Maral von Blomberg.

British Troops Occupy Thebes

ROME, Oct. 20 (AP)—British troops have occupied Thebes, 32 miles northwest of Athens, while German troops harassed by Greek guerrillas have speeded up their withdrawal from northern Greece toward Yugoslavia. Allied headquarters announced today.

There was no indication in the Allied communique whether advance British elements had made contact with the retreating Nazis.

Cesena Seized By 8th Army

ROME, Oct. 20 (AP)—British and Indian troops have entered Cesena, former German administration center on the main Bologna-Rimini highway in the Adriatic sector. Allied headquarters announced today.

Meanwhile, other Eighth Army troops made additional progress in bitter fighting in the mountainous areas southwest of Cesena, while the Fifth Army made local gains in the central Italian sector south of Bologna, flanking the Bologna-Florence highway.

Cesena, on the historic Emilia Way, is about 20 miles inland from the Adriatic.

Robot Bombs Hit London Area 9th Day

LONDON, Oct. 20 (AP)—For the ninth successive night the Germans launched flying bombs at southern England and the London area last night. Only a few got through night fighters and a barrage of anti-aircraft fire.

The attack was brief and first reports indicated the damage was small. Some of the buzz bombs came from the North sea, indicating the Germans were launching them from aircraft.

200 Flee Blaze in Hotel Here

Roused from their sleep by smoke, 200 guests at the Copley Square Hotel in Huntington ave., Back Bay, fled to the street in scanty clothing early today when fire, belated incendiary, swept the seven-story brick structure, causing damage of $5000.

Five fifth-floor residents were rescued over ladders by firemen.

Six separate flames were found on three floors, Deputy Fire Chief John F. McDonough said. Police arrested a 22-year-old girl, visiting at the hotel, on a drunkenness charge and took her to headquarters for questioning by the arson squad.

The girl, who said she was mother of a 3-months-old baby, was arraigned before Municipal Judge Jennie L. Barron on the liquor charge. The case was continued until tomorrow at the request of Police Sgt. Bartholomew O'Connor, who sought to question her further about the fire. She was held in $300 bonds.

Beach Warship?

By the Associated Press
The Tokyo radio claimed today an American battleship had run aground Tuesday evening (Japanese time) at Bungo point on Samar island "in its desperate attempt to attack the Philippines." The English-language broadcast reported by the FCC said the ship's stern was submerged and its bow was high above.

Pilot Editorial Raps Red Church 'Freedom'

Entitled "Church Freedom—Soviet Model" an editorial appearing in this week's Pilot, publication of the Boston archdiocese, labeled as "ambiguous" a Moscow story that claimed Catholics in Russia were as free as other denominations.

The editorial: "The newspaper article originating in Moscow to the effect that Catholics in Russia enjoyed the same 'freedom' as the members of other churches was an ambiguous bit of business that we might have expected to see it receive very little prominence. The contrary has been the case. And many casual readers who make no effort to reason a matter through or investigate details are probably saying: 'Well, that is that . . . what have the Catholics got to kick about now?'"

"Boiled down, the Russian 'freedom' seems to come to this—Catholics are as free as others in the practice of their religion. Just that; the fact being that no one seems to have enough 'freedom' to be worthy of mention.

"The Russian 'freedom' must be squared with the fact that numbers of Catholic priests are still imprisoned at Solovetsky island and elsewhere, all held incommunicado. With seminary training prohibited what becomes of the religious opportunities of a people served by over 800 priests and six bishops in 1917, now represented by a scant dozen priests?

"This whole issue was projected by an unsolicited pronouncement from Moscow. Catholics and all other lovers of religious freedom in America are co-operating as best they can with the war aims of the Soviet government. They are not at the moment asking many questions about the internal arrangements of that country. Perhaps they should ask more . . ."

War Question Is Branded 'Insult to Our Intelligence'

Everyone knows there's a war going on.

This is quite obvious from the flood of protesting letters to the Boston Evening American from readers who voiced their indignation at the constant, irksome repetition of the query "Don't You Know There's a War On?"

Now the deadline is at hand for letters. The competition will come to an end tomorrow. From the hundreds of excellent letters received, the I-Know-There's-A-War-On Editor will select the best of those published for which the writer will be awarded a $30 War Bond. Writers of letters published today and tomorrow will be awarded the $3 given for each printed missive, of course.

"Yes, I know there's a war on, there's a gold star hanging in my window," writes Mrs. F. G. of Natick. "My son will have to grow up without a Dad to tell his small troubles and triumphs to. Do you think I will be able to make him understand why the other boys have Dads while he has none? I know, because of the emptiness within me that a gold star will never fill."

"Indeed I do," says Mrs. M. A. of Milton. "I knew last week when I tried in vain to get a doctor for my sick son and kept a solitary, worried 24-hour vigil by his crib, watching him call for the Daddy he hasn't seen for a year. I know it as I try to be mother and father to my boy; as I wait for mail; as I sit at home night after lonely night, remembering the happy past, yet not daring to dream of a happy future."

"Even though I'm only 12 years old, I realize there's a war on because I have three brothers in the service and a fourth leaving soon," reports L. M. of Newmarket, N. H. "Sure, we're making sacrifices on the home front, but it's much better than living in foxholes and eating rations like my brothers and others are doing."

"Streets filled with uniformed men and women," says A. S. V. of Boston, "war plants humming, Victory gardens, ration books, taxes, crowded hospitals, War Bonds, sometimes fateful telegrams—Gold Stars. We are sensible people, wholeheartedly doing our bit, practically ignoring minor inconveniences. 'Don't You Know There's a War On?' Insults our intelligence. Let courtesy oil the wheels and uphold morale on the home front!"

An F. D. Echo

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 20 (AP)—Pvt. John W. Mitchell, USMC, Republican candidate for the U. S. House of Representatives, spoke very briefly at a reception by admirers last night.

"Because of Marine Corps restrictions, I shall make no speeches and no promises," and then he added: "I shall not campaign in the usual sense."

Sargent Graduates Berate B. U. for Changing Name

Graduates of Sargent School, famed girls' school of physical education, rose in their wrath today in protest against the action of Boston University in changing the school's name.

B. U. trustees voted to rename the institution, founded in 1881 on a site now occupied by Radcliffe College, "The Boston University College of Physical Education for Women."

Old alumnae, proud of their alma mater, assailed as chicanery the trustees' action to voting to perpetuate the name of Sargent by calling the building which houses the college "Sargent Hall." The 63-year-old physical institution was given to B. U. in 1929 as an outright gift by Dr. Ledyard W. Sargent, son and successor of the founder, Dr. Dudley A. Sargent, with the provision the name Sargent be perpetuated by the university. In answer to the protest of irate alumnae, university officials maintained this was done by designating the college building "Sargent Hall."

Bronze Star Award To North Adams Boy

PFC William E. Lewis of North Adams has been awarded the Bronze Star Medal for heroic achievement in the face of enemy artillery fire in Italy last February, it was announced by the War Department today.

Lewis ran toward shells bursting within 20 feet of him to retrieve his disabled tank destroyer, then returned 300 yards through a field covered by mortar fire.

25-Ounce Baby Gaining in Health

BISMARCK, N. D., Oct. 20 (AP)—The 25-ounce daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Stanton of Bismarck was doing well today, an attending physician said.

The tiny girl has been in an incubator since she was born Sunday night. Physicians said she is surprisingly plump, 12 inches, for her weight, and quite active.

LONDON, Oct. 20 (AP) — Allied troops are going to be trained in street fighting apparently in preparation for battling Hitler's new guerrilla army.

The training program will be carried out in the Battersea area of southwest London — a congested district of workers' houses and factories.

The whole section has been badly blitzed and looks like a German city or town might after Allied shelling and bombing.

Sleep of Innocence

Some day when her soft blonde hair has lost its baby fineness, and her blue eyes no longer mirror the all-accepting faith of infancy, little Claudia Stephenson will learn to be lonely for a dad she has never known. But just now she merely sleeps, with a Purple Heart clutched in her hand. It might be just another pretty toy, instead of the symbol of her greatest of gifts to her country.

Claudia's father, who was only 27 when he died, July 26, on Guam, would understand the life his daughter faces. His own father died in the other war 26 years ago, but he thought his little baby daughter would be spared a fatherless girlhood. For Claude Brown Stephenson always believed he was coming home. He was lucky, this young fisherman and miner, and certain his luck would last when, in 1943, he quietly said good-bye to his young wife and tiny three-months-old baby as he left for the Marines.

Claudia Stephenson doesn't know it yet, but the pretty emblem she fondles means that she has given her own dad—a sacrifice acknowledged by one line of type in the day's casualty list.

MORE HOMES

ABNER H. FERGUSON, Federal Housing Administrator, recently predicted the end of the war in Europe would touch off a home-building boom unprecedented in American history and destined to last at least ten years.

Construction will consist largely of private residences in the $5000 to $10,000 price range, he said, with the costs met to a large degree from the record wartime civilian savings, plus fifteen billion dollars which returning service men will spend.

"We are pleased to hear an official of Mr. Ferguson's importance advocating an arrangement whereby war veterans will own their own homes.

If the currently useless land in rural and suburban areas is made available to these men who deserve the best their grateful country and communities can give them, they will be in a position to take full advantage of the loan provisions of the G. I. Bill of Rights and acquire the kind of dwellings they want.

With improved highways, better railroad service and regularly scheduled aerial transportation, life in the country is going to be more pleasurable in the future than it has ever been in the past, especially in Massachusetts and New England.

WORLD MENACE

THE vice-chancellor of the Archdiocese of New York, Msgr. Walter P. Kellenberg, recently called juvenile delinquency a world menace and said it threatens to nullify all the war effort we are expending to preserve our American homes.

"Young boys and girls—mere children—are being arrested for drunkenness, disorderly conduct, commercialized vice, vagrancy, carrying concealed weapons, murder, stealing, truancy and destruction of property," he declared. "Is there any litany of evil to match it?"

Whereupon Monsignor Kellenberg offered what he believes to be the ONLY REMEDY for the increasingly calamitous situation which cannot fail to bring everlasting ruin to thousands upon thousands of young people unless it is speedily corrected.

"Teach the child to pray and pray with him," he urged. "Provide for religious instruction in church or school as well as in the home. Punish faults but guard against displays of anger. And share a child's interests with a view to learning about his thoughts, his problems, his recreations and his companions."

In other words, PARENTS MUST MAKE UP THEIR MINDS TO ACCEPT AND REMAIN FAITHFUL TO ALL THEIR PARENTAL RESPONSIBILITIES AND OBLIGATIONS.

FEWER HUSBANDS

THE Census Bureau recently disclosed that there are only about 1,700,000 single men between the ages of 20 and 34 in American civilian life in contrast to some 4,000,000 unmarried women in the same age group.

However, lest too large a part of the feminine population fancy themselves doomed to lifelong spinsterhood, we are pleased to point out that in the not-too-distant future millions of the finest young men in the world are going to be released from the fighting forces.

And it probably won't matter if the girl is five or six years older than the recipient of her affections. Thanks to attractive clothing, healthful living and the intelligent use of cosmetics, most women of 35 look 25 today.

What is the baby thinking about?

Very wonderful things no doubt. What does he think of his mother's eyes?

What does he think of his mother's hair?

What of the cradle roof that flaps

Forward and backward through the air?

What does he think when his mother's quick embrace

Presses his head and buries his face

Deep where the heart-throbs sink and swell

With a tenderness she can never tell?

He even has one for Anastasia.

QUERIES FROM CLIENTS:

Q—Have just accepted a marriage proposal from a Libra man. How about it? Are the Libra males hard to handle and as romantic as Clark Gable?

A—The star gazers say that as Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) men have Venus as their ruling planet they are inclined to be flirtatious.

The Libra lads are said to be regular fellows, great lovers, good providers and very generous. A Libra man wants to be very proud of his wife and his home. Therefore, he wants the little lady to be a smart dresser and generally well-turned out. Also wants an immaculate, well-kept, well-furnished home. If the Libra man's wife gets a little sloppy, a bit too plump or becomes careless about her housekeeping, she stands a good chance of losing a husband.

WESTBROOK PEGLER
Copyright, 1944, King Features Syndicate, Inc.
NEW YORK, Oct. 20—Several campaign propagandists of the Roosevelt side, including one Continental refugee, have done me the dubious honor of suggesting that I have had a hand in the composition of some of Governor Dewey's speeches.

The honor is dubious, I say, because Mr. Dewey's style is too restrained for my taste and, in a contest with the Messrs. Sherwood, Michelson, Rosen-wood and David K. Niles, as he calls himself, I should like to be represented by my own work in which case, I am confident I could bat the ears off the spooks who haunt the White House.

Not that Mr. Dewey isn't doing well enough on his own, you understand.

But the difference is that he cuts them up whereas my method would be to belt them down.

As an example of the contrast between Mr. Dewey's treatment of a prominent issue and the way I should handle the same question, I give you here as follows:

In his speech on taxation, Mr. Dewey touched briefly on the confusion which is written into law, and quoted from a section concerning contributions to employees' pension plans which says:

"They shall not be deductible under sub-section (A) but shall be deductible under sub-section (A) without regard to this sub-section but only to the following extent . . ."

Now that was a nice jab, but just when he had them blinking he stepped away to look at the blood, when the thing to have done was to pitch the Fourth of July punch and knock them up into the two-bit seats.

MY WAY would have been to clout them with gosh-awful smack, and for this purpose I would have used some remarks from a speech by Miss Marguerite Rawalt, president of the Federal Bar Ass'n.

Miss Rawalt, who is a special attorney in the Appeals Division of the Chief Counsel of the Bureau of Internal Revenue, declared herself in a practical trade talk to the Texas Bar Ass'n which was a plain exhortation to her fellow lawyers to take full advantage of the unfortunate citizen's uncertainty and his dependence on legal counsel for the interpretation of the law in countless, perilous daily relations with his government.

"ARE THE lawyers of this country, men and women, going to take full advantage of their opportunities in administrative law?" Miss Rawalt demanded.

"It is the most rapidly expanding area of law practice today. There are some 217 special courts, bureaus and commissions which today decide upon and administer various federal laws directly affecting citizens and business firms."

"Administrative law, through the Federal Communications Commission, regulates the programs you hear on your radio and determines the use of the telegraph and telephone."

"Administrative law, through the Federal Trade Commission, determines various trade practices within the industries."

"Administrative law, through the OPA and other departments, regulates what food you may buy and what you may pay for it. Concurrent with the phenomenal growth in this field of law, there has been a sudden decrease in the number of lawyers."

Thus discussing the citizen's helplessness in the maze of ambiguous laws and hundreds of lawyers to keep him out of court or out of jail, the New Deal lady counselor adjured her colleagues "to stake their claim in this promising professional gold mine."

Miss Rawalt reminded them that Justice Felix Frankfurter, who never has been accused of simplicity himself, had laid down the dictum that the citizen has only himself to blame if he innocently assumes that the law, in any given case, means what it plainly says.

HAD I BEEN Mr. Dewey's spook, I should have quoted thus and more so from the attitude toward that harried, worried and bewildered slob, George Spelvin, American, so often and so patronizingly referred to as the Little People and the Common Man.

And if so much as a twitch then remained in the writhings of the haunted house on Pennsylvania avenue, I should finish them off with a reminder that, according to Frankfurter's own dictum, none of his own opinions or statements, including the one that words don't mean what they say, has any meaning, and leave the mugs for dead.

I have never been invited to tangle with Mr. Roosevelt's spooks but I can think of no contest that I would like better.

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Copyright, 1944, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

NEW YORK, Oct. 20—Several campaign propagandists of the Roosevelt side, including one Continental refugee, have done me the dubious honor of suggesting that I have had a hand in the composition of some of Governor Dewey's speeches.

The honor is dubious, I say, because Mr. Dewey's style is too restrained for my taste and, in a contest with the Messrs. Sherwood, Michelson, Rosen-

But the difference is that he cuts them up whereas my method would be to belt them down.

As an example of the contrast between Mr. Dewey's treatment of a prominent issue and the way I should handle the same question, I give you here as follows:

In his speech on taxation, Mr. Dewey touched briefly on the confusion which is written into law, and quoted from a section concerning contributions to employees' pension plans which says:

"They shall not be deductible under sub-section (A) but shall be deductible under sub-section (A) without regard to this sub-section but only to the following extent . . ."

Now that was a nice jab, but just when he had them blinking he stepped away to look at the blood, when the thing to have done was to pitch the Fourth of July punch and knock them up into the two-bit seats.

MY WAY would have been to clout them with gosh-awful smack, and for this purpose I would have used some remarks from a speech by Miss Marguerite Rawalt, president of the Federal Bar Ass'n.

Miss Rawalt, who is a special attorney in the Appeals Division of the Chief Counsel of the Bureau of Internal Revenue, declared herself in a practical trade talk to the Texas Bar Ass'n which was a plain exhortation to her fellow lawyers to take full advantage of the unfortunate citizen's uncertainty and his dependence on legal counsel for the interpretation of the law in countless, perilous daily relations with his government.

"ARE THE lawyers of this country, men and women, going to take full advantage of their opportunities in administrative law?" Miss Rawalt demanded.

"It is the most rapidly expanding area of law practice today. There are some 217 special courts, bureaus and commissions which today decide upon and administer various federal laws directly affecting citizens and business firms."

"Administrative law, through the Federal Communications Commission, regulates the programs you hear on your radio and determines the use of the telegraph and telephone."

"Administrative law, through the Federal Trade Commission, determines various trade practices within the industries."

"Administrative law, through the OPA and other departments, regulates what food you may buy and what you may pay for it. Concurrent with the phenomenal growth in this field of law, there has been a sudden decrease in the number of lawyers."

Thus discussing the citizen's helplessness in the maze of ambiguous laws and hundreds of lawyers to keep him out of court or out of jail, the New Deal lady counselor adjured her colleagues "to stake their claim in this promising professional gold mine."

Miss Rawalt reminded them that Justice Felix Frankfurter, who never has been accused of simplicity himself, had laid down the dictum that the citizen has only himself to blame if he innocently assumes that the law, in any given case, means what it plainly says.

HAD I BEEN Mr. Dewey's spook, I should have quoted thus and more so from the attitude toward that harried, worried and bewildered slob, George Spelvin, American, so often and so patronizingly referred to as the Little People and the Common Man.

And if so much as a twitch then remained in the writhings of the haunted house on Pennsylvania avenue, I should finish them off with a reminder that, according to Frankfurter's own dictum, none of his own opinions or statements, including the one that words don't mean what they say, has any meaning, and leave the mugs for dead.

I have never been invited to tangle with Mr. Roosevelt's spooks but I can think of no contest that I would like better.

Hollywood Today

By Dorothy Manners

Substituting for Louella O. Parsons, Who is on Vacation

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 20—So far, Clifton Webb has stolen all the thunder in "Laura" but that is because the slick chicks haven't yet got in their say about Dana Andrews, who is far more popular with the same sub-debs who go for Frank Sinatra and Alan Ladd than most people realize. He rates fourth on a national magazine poll, with only Frankie Boy, Alan and Sonny Tufts ahead of him.

So it's no surprise that his home lot, 20th, is launching Dana as a full-fledged star in "Now It Can Be Told," an adventure yarn based on the five most important sabotage cases handled by the Department of Justice before the start of World War II. Because these are factual cases, heretofore unknown to the public, Darryl Zanuck is calling the venture a "news drama." Louis De Rochemont produces.

LATEST IN THE LINEUP of the four husbands Joan Fontaine marries in "The Affairs of Susan" is Dennis O'Keefe, who signed with Hal Wallis today. It's a funny thing about O'Keefe. A couple of years ago he was lucky if he got a good-featured role. Now he's hot—so hot that he'll make "Affairs" at the same time he's starring in "The Earl Carroll Vanities" at Republic. The other three husbands for Joan are George Brent, Walter Abel and Don De Fore.

VERONICA LAKE'S new hair-do is Andre De Tott's idea. The girl who originated the hidden eye coiffure now looks like a scrubbed up little Dutch Gretchen with tight braids across the top of her head. Her boy friend doesn't like a "flying mane" and what he says goes with Ronnie, who is very, very much in love. After a spell of putting on both sides, Veronica is once again the fair haired girl at Paramount. In fact, she rates so well that Henry Ginsburg is having a special story written for her by John Housemann—the plot of which is a big secret.

LESTER COWAN is a gent who knows what he wants—and right now he wants a lend-lease deal that will give him Brian Donlevy and Ann Richards for a Technicolor opus glorifying the building of the Alaskan highway. But Cowan is a reasonable man—he'll wait until spring to get a crack at the two stars who made "American Romance." Of course, it all depends on whether he can buy out Brian and Ann from their respective studios. His adventure yarn will be called "Road to Tomorrow," and he'll have the co-operation of the Canadian Government in the filming. Now all he needs is a little cooperation from the studios who have his co-star pets under contract.

SIDE LINES: The only scene that needed a retake in "A Tree Grows in Brooklyn" was the tree! It didn't photograph well and since it has the title role they had to send out and rent a new one. . . Looks like Martha Vickers is going to get the daughter role with Joan Crawford in "Mildred Pierce" after everybody on the Warner lot fro to Barbara Stanwyck to the cashier in the lunch room was rumored for the part. . . Danny Kaye and Virginia Mayo have a scene mixing up a cake batter for "Wonder Man." So Lucky Humberston had it sent over to the commissary and baked for lunch. . . Gloria De Haven's fan mail at M-G-M is now second only to Greer Garson's. The studio fan mail department is not only a barometer of how the stars stand with the fans but it shows how the war is going. When there is a big push, such as the invasion of Europe, or a big battle, the mail drops off. But when the boys are sitting around waiting they write letters like mad.

"When my fellow doesn't call I simply go and take a bath. The phone ALWAYS rings then!"

LAIRD CREGAR, who wasn't happy about playing the "heavy" in "Hangover Square," can perk up. He reverts to a hero in his next, "The Spider," the old Fulton Oursler-Lowell Brentano play. He'll play a mind reader who is suspected of murdering a man in a crowded theater where he is giving a performance. In fact, the entire action takes place in the theater. Lest I leave a wrong impression, I understand Cregar is now very happy about "Hangover Square" and sorry he kicked up his heels in the beginning. Laird isn't exactly temperamental—but he admits he blows hot and then cold, subject to change without notice.

HOLLYWOOD IN SHORTS: Ava Gardner dreaming into Artie Shaw's eyes, or vice versa, at the Palladium; Mrs. Randolph Scott denies the stork rumor; is there a rift already in the marriage of the Norman Hannels (the ex-Mrs. Jimmy Rutz) in spite of the fact that they are on the stork list? Mystery Writer Dashiell Hammett, now a sergeant in the Army, has been on long duty in the Aleutians—over two years—and he's 45 years old; congratulations to PPC for getting popular Don McElwaine as director of publicity and advertising; Estelle Taylor gets a Reno or Las Vegas divorce from Paul Small the minute she finishes "Hold Autumn in Your Hand"; this tops everything—Fifi D'Orsay says the USO New York found her "too sexy" for an overseas jaunt because she would be a "disturbing influence." What about the Misses Paulette Goddard, Carole Landis, Betty Hutton, et al?

VICTOR MOORE caught a cold in his head while locked up in an ice box for a scene in "Duffy's Tavern"; Lt. (jg) John Howard has planned out for Washington to await orders; just to be different, Rod Cameron was stepping out with a lady in uniform, Ens. (WAIVE) Adie Linder, at the Biltmore Bowl; Charles Boyer leaves town today for a couple of speeches—not political; Lou Costello, who has never used his "I'm a badass boy" in the movies, is reviving it in "Here Come the Co-Eds"; Frances Langford takes out a pilot's license after the war; Stella Under is in New York with her new book, "The Poem Pedler."

Star Shine

By Sidney Skolsky

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 20.—There aren't any bobby socks amongst the exhibitors who write their comments about pictures for the Motion Picture Herald, for this is the general tone of what they have to say:

Exhibitor Sid J. Dickler of Pittsburgh, Pa., writes about "Step Live-ly": "This one should not be 'What the Picture Did for Me,' but 'What the Picture Did to Me.' A cockeyed affair of a story, listless and no definite semblance of holding the patron's interest. As said heretofore in this column by this reviewer: 'The Voice' is on his way out in this district as a box-office magnet. Business with this picture proved our point, but good. The boos outnumbered the crazy sighs of the suckers on this one." Don't hit me, kids, I didn't say a word, I'm merely quoting. I believe Sinatra has a career in pictures—why, Metro just signed him to a contract.

Concerning "The Bridge of San Luis Rey," Exhibitor A. C. Edwards of Seattle, Cal., writes: "We had almost concluded that our people would turn out for anything except war pictures. This served as an object lesson... Many walkouts and more lively looks at conclusion of picture."

This same exhibitor has this to say about "Make Your Own Bed": "It drew very well, but personally I thought it was silly, and so did lots of others. Carson is better in such roles as 'Princess O'Rourke.' When I want a princess, I'll still take Olivia de Havilland."

THE SMALL TOWN exhibitor is still there with the small town excuse. If a picture does bad business it is because it is not a picture for small towns, and if it does good business it is definitely a small town picture and that's why they went for it.

Exhibitor W. J. Fleischer of Franklin, Minn., writes about "Thousands Cheer": "Another record breaker; good business. Everybody pleased. A small town should have more pictures like this"... And the cities liked it also.

While Exhibitor Bryce Paulson of Remus, Mich., has this to say about "Lady in the Dark": "In my estimation this is definitely not a small town picture. Had more walkouts on this picture than any I have shown"... I don't know, I believe this picture should go in the small towns as well as the big towns. Anyone want to explain why not to me?"

Exhibitor A. L. Dove of Bengough, Sask., Can., writes about "Broadway Rhythm": "This production was very disappointing both from a musical and entertainment standpoint. Beautiful color but too much dialogue for a musical production. Patrons expected more music. Would recommend this if you have not placed it as yet. And that's without liking the picture. Imagine how we would react if we had liked it."

George Holland

Boston After Dark

RECOMMENDED: Frank Fay in "Harvey" at the Copley, his first "straight" play... (Some Bostonians recall a revue called "Tattletales" in which the clever Frank made his last stage appearance here. That production happened when the famous romance of Frank Fay-Barbara Stanwyck was titillating the movie and theatrical circles of the country)... Joan Edwards, an amazing little posture dancer and contortionist who also has managed to retain a dainty figure. At the Latin Quarter... The food at Jack Larkins Red Coach Grill, and the masterful headwaiter-ing of Paul, once more d' of the Mayfair... Paul Zara's trio and Pete Herman's quartet, both at the Music Box... The new trio at Shanghai... The girl harpist at the Myles Standish, and Nan Blakstone at the Sature Room... Wilson Lewis' great small band at the Rhumba Casino (of the Fox and Hounds)...

The decision of the bosses of most of the good night-spots to serve their patrons the brand of liquor asked for (and if the particular brand doesn't happen to be in stock, the welcome, if belated, eagerness of waiters to inform the patrons)... Note: We take a bit of a credit for this innovation.

NOBLE AND KING at the Plazzo, Oval Room, and the marvelous rendition by Harry Green, maestro, and his band, of the instrumental-number, "Warsaw Concerto"... This Harry Green is a sure-comer, as we have long professed to believe. The immense part played by Lew Bonick, of the Marshard organization, in his development should be remembered by him always, too. (As it probably will be)... Helen Hayes in "Harriet" at the Colonial, almost "recommending" Miss Hayes in any show is somewhat like revealing the fact that the sun's rays are beneficial.

CHINESE-food lovers have been missing their almond cakes lately, and as almond cakes and stewed pineapples are the only desserts served in most of the places, patrons of the Chinatown spots have been going desert-less—there being no stewed pineapples either... The explanation is that almond cakes are furnished Boston by New York bakers (Chinese)... None has been available lately because the New York bakers have been concentrating on "moon cakes"... These are all round in shape, but have 15 different flavors... According to Sam, Ruby Foo's steward at the Den, connoisseurs of Chinese food can reconcile themselves each year to a month-or-so of abstinence from the crunchy, tasty almond cakes... It seems that when the 15th day of the 8th month of the Chinese calendar rolls around, the moon is always at its brightest and roundest, and a "moon festival" is declared by centuries of custom... What do the Chinese bakers do if the night is rainy and the moon obscured? They serve "moon cakes" anyway... And they keep baking them until the "moon festival", which lasts a week or more, is ended.

My Day By Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt

BUFFALO, N. Y., Thursday. I came up to Buffalo last night on the midnight train, and my old friend, Mrs. Norman Mack, met me and gave me a chance for a bath and breakfast at her very comfortable home.

At 11:29 I am to meet the press, and I imagine I will be asked whether I object to the skirt which caused Mrs. Mack to resign from the 20th Century Club here last week. Not having seen the skirt, which reportedly satirized me, I can have no opinion on the subject, because in a thing like that it all depends on the way in which it is done.

I AM HERE TODAY to speak at a luncheon sponsored by the Independent Voters Committee for the Re-election of Roosevelt on the importance of using one's right to vote.

Several girls who could not attend the luncheon asked to meet me at the train just before I leave. That will end my stay in Buffalo, and I will go on to Elmhurst, where I am attending a dinner under the auspices of the Independent Citizens Committee.

I HAVE RECEIVED requests for clothes, blankets and other materials from Belgian, Czechoslovakian, French, Italian and Greek relief groups—in fact, from all the countries which have suffered so terribly during this war.

They also appeal for workers to help sort and pack these things.

I know that UNRRA has made an appeal, but these separate organizations appeal to people who have friends or relatives in these various countries.

FRIDAY IS DESTINED . . . it seems . . . to be perfume day, the day to tell you about the delightful, exotic and exciting fragrances which quiver our nostrils. Maybe there's a meaning to "our madness" . . . since Friday is the day before the week-end . . . when big doings are in the offing . . . and we want you to create a distinctive picture . . . all your own.

If you're a girl in love . . . and who isn't with something or somebody . . . this perfume will not only catch the tempo of your most pleasing mood . . . but give others a lovely impression of you. Your most romantic mood can . . . for instance . . . be beautifully reflected in the light-hearted fragrance . . . and quite naturally so . . . for this provocative scent was actually created to be worn by the woman in love.

Even the design of the bottle carries a true love theme. It's a hand blown glass replica of cupid's familiar trade-mark . . . the ever appealing heart and dart, mounted on a pedestal-like base of lace-looking etched glass. If you are or want to be in love . . . perfume is nature's short cut to man's weakness.

INTRIGUING WAYS

But there are more intriguing ways of using your perfume . . . and here are some of the rather unexpected ones that will bring out the sheer romance of this exquisite odor. Put a bit of it on a tiny piece of cotton and drop it into your handkerchief. Everytime you open your bag . . . you and everyone near you . . . will delight in a heart-warming whiff of this joyous fragrance.

Another lovely way is to drop a little on a small piece of cotton and place it in the pocket of your blouse or dress . . . or pin it inside of your bra. Need we say more? Then . . . try spraying it on the inside cuffs of your long-sleeved dress and the inside of your gloves . . . that will let this compelling fragrance move along with every gesture of your hands. Or spray a little on your hair nets and snoods.

Perfume . . . and this one especially . . . will undoubtedly take on a new meaning to you once you've mastered these clever feminine ways of using it. It is the subtle approach, my dear.

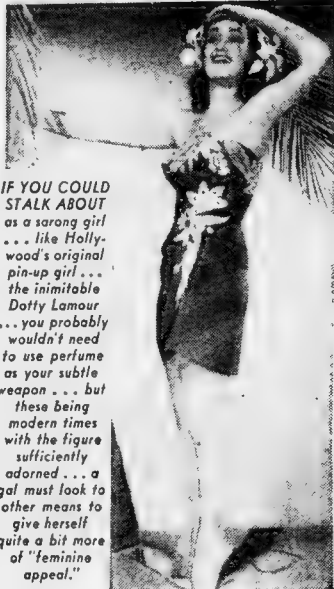

For the name of this perfume original, phone the Beauty Dept., Liberty 4800, or write me, care of the Boston Evening American, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

The Correct Thing

By ELINOR AMES

BE TACTFUL, PLEASE! Don't "kid" the bride about gifts that you don't admire! It's embarrassing to jeer, "Where did you get this?" It looks like the original fire sale number, etc., and then discover the article that provoked your mirth was sent by a member of the bride's family, selected by the bride herself or entirely pleasing in her eyes!

IF YOU COULD STALK ABOUT as a sarong girl . . . like Hollywood's original pin-up girl . . . the inimitable Dotty Lamour . . . you probably wouldn't need to use perfume as your subtle weapon . . . but these being modern times with the figure sufficiently adorned . . . a gal must look to other means to give herself quite a bit more of "feminine appeal."

She's Stubborn

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX—We've been separated twice during five years of marriage, which my husband attributes to my stubbornness. I'm stubborn, I know, but only when I have reason to be. We have a lovely son of 3.

When my husband was called to the service, we went back together again, and he has been stationed close to our city, so he comes home over the week-end. His camp is only three hours' ride from our house, but it seems to take him 12 hours. He doesn't stay home long enough to take us anywhere, although he makes promises. And he won't take me where he goes.

I've stopped writing him, as I feel if he doesn't have time for us, I don't have time for him. I'd like your advice before I do something I'll regret later. Should I let him go ahead and enjoy his freedom, or what can I do?

It seems to me if you really love your husband you must take into consideration the uprooting that Army life does to a man's morale.

You tell me you know you've been stubborn but only when you have reason to be. Still, you don't state what these reasons are. Do you really think that a husband wants to come home to a stubborn wife when he can go off with the boys, go to a canteen, and have a thoroughly good time dancing with girls who aren't in the least stubborn?

The question of saving your marriage is up to you, my dear girl. In the final analysis, to my way of thinking, home should be saved for children. You don't state your age in your letter, but I think your trouble is chiefly youth and lack of discipline. It sounds hard and you'll probably hate me, but taking the hazards of Army life into consideration, I think your wisest plan is to try and save your marriage.

Slacks for Lounging

By BETTINA BEDWELL

THE designers who devote themselves to making you look beautiful in your private life have a lot of new ideas in the way of lounging slacks and gowns.

The best of these are not frail and fluffy, but have real distinction and are practical, too.

About the nicest of the lounging slacks or pajamas I have seen are designed by Joseph Whitehead, a very big name in the designing world. He has a tailored coat with slacks that is a beauty, and Miss Dulin has sketched it for you.

The long coat is made of fine, firm black wool with a narrow white hairline stripe pattern. It is beautifully tailored and has glory added in the black sequin embroidered belt and big patch pocket. A scarf of fuchsia satin fills in the neckline. Black crepe slacks are worn with the coat.

FALL AND WINTER days of celebration like Halloween, Thanksgiving and Christmas always bring promise of spicy, flavorful cookies. This is the time of year when the mellow goodness of molasses, the pungent aroma of ginger, and the satisfying fragrance of brown sugar smelt and taste better than ever.

Two tempting cookies which make luscious use of these good things in a most delicious manner are molasses drops and butterscotch refrigerator cookies. The molasses drops are soft, chewy cookies whose molasses and spice flavor makes them an ideal brisk weather dessert. The butterscotch refrigerator cookies, more subtle in flavor, are crisp and crunchy and most successful with their pleasing combination of rich brown sugar and bits of nuts.

MOLASSES DROPS

1 tsp. vinegar 1/2 cup molasses
1 cup brown sugar
2 1/2 cups sifted enriched flour
1/2 cup sour milk
1/2 tsp. soda 1/2 tsp. salt
1/2 cup shortening
1/2 tsp. ginger 1/2 tsp. cinnamon
Chocolate bits

Cream together shortening and sugar until light and fluffy. Add vinegar and blend well. Combine molasses and sour milk. Sift together flour, soda, salt, ginger, and cinnamon. Add to creamed mixture alternately with milk and molasses. Drop by teaspoonfuls on greased baking sheets. Place chocolate bits in center of cookies. Bake in moderate oven (350 deg. F.) 12 to 13 minutes. Makes about 6 dozen small cookies.

BUTTERSCOTCH REFRIGERATOR COOKIES

2 eggs, beaten Colored candied
1 cup margarine or butter
2 cups brown sugar

Union Acts to Block Big Rubber Co. Strike

PROVIDENCE, Oct. 20—Union officials scheduled a meeting with workers today in a move to halt spread of the walkout of 700 employees of the U. S. Rubber Co. plant. Workers said the strike was in protest against the company's appointment of a supervisor in the maintenance division of the latex department.

Must Support Unborn Babe

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 20 (AP)—Cowboy actor Rod Cameron was ordered to pay $150 a month to Toni St. John, former secretary to ventriloquist Edgar Bergen, for support of a baby she expects in December.

Judge Goodwin J. Knight declared an unborn child has the same right to support as one that is already in the world, and ordered the payments to start today.

Cameron, denying paternity, claims he and Miss St. John underwent a marriage in Mexico last April. The marriage subsequently was annulled.

Ely's Book Scores Hidden Rule

Attacking the fourth-term attempt of President Roosevelt, former Gov. Ely charged in a new book, "The American Dream," published today, that unidentified men, not elected by the people, would run the government under a continuation of New Deal policies.

Recognized as one of the nation's outstanding anti-Roosevelt Democrats, the former Governor writes that the President's attempt to continue in office was part of a pattern of foreign idealism which would bring about a "heightening of economic, social and political chaos."

The book traces the former Governor's own political career and tells of his close association with the movement to elect the late Mr. Taft. Such is President Hood's way in the New Deal. Ely and writes of the "disfranchisement of the Constitution" and his packing of the Supreme Court.

He declares Americans are right in gambling about OPA rules and regulations.

When it happens that the American people are committed to war, "when told they could buy only as much butter, meat, and other goods as they could presence of war, they are losing the initiative of American citizenship and becoming slaves of the State."

Veterans' Friend

By JAMES F. McENANAY

Q—I have been in the Navy 29 years and recently was put on the retired list, total disability, unfit for shore or sea duty, due to heart ailment. I have a National Service Life Insurance policy and I have heard that anyone with total disability is exempt from paying premiums. Will you let me know if this is true, also if I am entitled to mustering-out pay? F. S., Melrose.

A—Rated totally disabled, you are entitled to make application for waiver of insurance premiums and still remain insured. Make application to Director of National Service Insurance, Washington, D. C., for Form 357 "Statement of Claim for Waiver of Premiums." Not entitled to mustering-out pay.

Q—I am an honorably discharged Navy man, following 5 months of service. I recently underwent an appendix operation performed by my family physician in a private hospital. Will I be able to receive any money to pay my hospital and doctor's bills? I will be out of work for five or six weeks, if not more. J. L., Boston.

A—You are out of luck as far as the Veterans' Administration is concerned. The only time the govt. pays for such operations or hospitalization is upon authorization of local Veterans' Bureau officials allowing veterans to be hospitalized in outside hospital.

Q—Are all 4-F's eligible for the American Field Service? Could you furnish the address of the Field Service Hq.? J. M., Southbridge.

A—That is something the Field Service will have to answer. Nearest place for you to get information on that branch of civilian service is American Headquarters in Worcester.

Questions submitted to Veterans' Friend Editor, Boston Evening American, 5 Winthrop sq., Boston 6, Mass., will be answered in this column daily.

Is You Is, Honey?

GADSDEN, Ala., Oct. 20 (AP)—Hope, Ark., was chosen for the first meeting of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Southern Accents because it "has fewer Yankees than any other town in the country except Jackson Heights, N. Y.," founder Walling Keith, editor of the Gadsden Times, says.

"Geo. Lingually, Hope is the center of the southern accent belt," Keith said.

The Gadsden editor founded the SPCSA because he was "sick and tired of seeing Hollywood, Broadway and the networks murder southern accents."

Hitler Turns Down Hungary Aid Plea

STOCKHOLM, Oct. 20 (AP)—The Budapest correspondent of Stockholm's Tidningen said today

Ferenc Szalasi, premier of Hungary's new puppet government, had visited Hitler at Berchtesgaden to appeal for German reinforcements to bolster his regime.

The correspondent said, instead of granting the request Hitler has demanded Szalasi organize "suicide units" to cover German forces withdrawing from Hungary.

Goodbye to GRAB-BAG
BUYING!

Every time you have had to forego your preference and take the brands your grocer happened to have, you've learned that there are no prizes in this grab-bag way of getting groceries. We hope before long you can again have your pick of meat food items—and, among other high quality foods, your grocer will again have plenty of Cain's Mayonnaise.

In the meantime, keep asking for Cain's and for your other preferred brands. It's one way to make sure he'll get more and will eventually have a full supply of the better brands—the brands you want.

FOOTNOTE TO GROCERS!

It's not just wishful thinking—the progress we have made at Cain's gives me good reason to say that soon you'll get all of our mayonnaise you need.

Sincerely yours,

President.

19 Die in Street Fight in Palermo

ROME, Oct. 20 (AP)—Nineteen persons died as the result of a street battle yesterday in Palermo, Sicily, between a mob and Italian troops.

Salvatore Aldisio, Italian high commissioner, said the disorder followed a demonstration staged by employees of private concerns who wanted wage rises equivalent to those granted state and local government employees.

Aldisio said Sicily has only enough grain to last until mid-December, and expressed concern for the island's welfare.

Canteen Style Show Attracts Many

BOSTON'S FAMOUS Stage Door Canteen at 48 Boylston st., ordinarily open only to servicemen and regular volunteer workers, was thronged with a fashionable civilian audience yesterday at the first of two afternoons of entertainment to benefit its maintenance fund.

Guests of honor were Helen Hayes, who spoke on behalf of the American Theater Wing, parent of all Stage Door Canteens, and Mrs. Brock Pemberton, wife of the well known producer who is so active in the theater's war service program. The diminutive star of "Harriet" wore a beige gabardine suit, white satin blouse and a saucy feathered beige hat which she laughingly explained "was to add a comedy touch. My husband will not allow me to wear it even in the same city with him."

Mrs. Pemberton's black ensemble was topped by a brilliant emerald jacket. Other guests were Mrs. Osgood Perkins, well-loved director of the Canteen; Mrs. Bowen Tufts, mother of movie star Sonny Tufts; Mrs. Mark Thompson, Mrs. Wm. D. Orcutt, Mrs. Myron Heller, in a festive purple suit with lime blouse; Mrs. James Murley warmly applauding her niece, Jane Holland, who was one of the glamorous models in the sumptuous fashion parade; Mildred Kert, in modish brown, a food bar captain at the canteen who had charge of refreshments; and Louise Morgan, the radio commentator who kept things running smoothly as mistress of ceremonies.

BRILLIANT FLOWERS and foliage from the country gardens of members will decorate the Women's City Club for the annual Harvest Festival Oct. 25 and 26. Mrs. Louis Phaneuf is directing arrangements.

Assisting her are Mrs. Hugh Bancroft, Mrs. Frank H. Stewart, Mrs. Pitt Fessenden Drew and many more including Mrs. Horace Pereira, Mrs. Ralph B. Case, Mrs. Donald J. MacPherson, Mrs. W. Stewart Whittemore, Mrs. Robert Burns, Mrs. Joseph G. Reynolds Jr., Mrs. C. L. Hagerman, Miss Emily MacFarlane and Mrs. David F. Edwards.

CAMBRIDGE RESIDENTS and their friends have started a rush on war bond booths in order to receive tickets for the Sunday evening reception in honor of Ruth Draper, famous monologist. The party, to be run by Mrs. Kingsley Porter, Mrs. John Daly and a large committee, will be at the Cambridge Boat Club. Admission will be by the purchase of a bond or a five dollar savings stamp.

Pascoag Charges Open Racing Probe

By JACK CONWAY

THERE SHOULD be a sweeping investigation of the charge of 40 of the approximately 70 owner-trainers that "professional gambling rings have been fixing races at the Pascoag race track." The Rhode Island Racing Commission and the track stewards should call before them all persons who have any information about improper practices.

The 40 horsemen who signed the statement making the original charges should be the chief witnesses.

Each horseman should be asked to give what information he has in regard to "fixed" races.

This is one of the few instances in the history of the American turf where the horsemen have come forward and brought charges against professional gamblers.

Gov. McGrath

The Pascoag charges followed rapidly an assault upon Joekey Ramirez, as he was in the way from the judges' stand to the jockeys' room. The jockey was set upon by three persons who attacked him. Before police or track detectives arrived at the scene the men who attacked Ramirez had disappeared in the crowd.

The Ramirez attack set off the spark which resulted in the horsemen making their signed charges.

The investigation should be complete and it should gather all possible evidence. In the event that any criminal actions are unearthed, the testimony of witnesses should be presented to the proper authorities.

If it should be proved that any of the parties involved in the alleged "fixing" are associated with racing they should be brought before the track stewards and the Racing Commission for action.

Demand Action

THE PUBLIC, which pays the racing freight and which bets its money on the races, has a right to demand complete action on the part of the authorities. Racing is bigger than any selfish group of professional gamblers who would enrich themselves by "fixing" races.

If the charges of the horsemen are sustained, the witnesses should be compelled to state who the persons were who were "fixed" by the professional gamblers. While the gamblers may have engineered the deals in the event it is proved they took place, they had to have their tools in racing to have them carried out successfully.

With millions of people attending races each year, the sport is entitled to full protection from any unscrupulous group of gamblers and their aides. The Rhode Island Racing Commission and the stewards at Pascoag have announced they will investigate the charges thoroughly. Let them do so at once, and give the public a complete story of their actions.

Should Call Jockeys

EVERY JOCKEY riding at Pascoag should be asked to testify at the investigation. The jockeys may be in a position to cast some interesting facts on the charges.

It was due to the statement of a jockey that the operations of the Pacific Coast gambling ring was revealed several years ago. In the Pacific Coast case, a group of bookmakers had certain jockeys riding at the Coast tracks under their control. One jockey talked and the case broke wide open.

The race tracks of the country are 100 per cent back of every move to remove any objectionable persons from racing. There are millions of dollars invested in racing, and the men who have built up the game do not wish to see it torn down by professional individuals or by any unscrupulous individuals associated with racing.

Gov. A. Howard McGrath of Rhode Island recently stated that horse racing has furnished needed revenue for his State. The Governor has favored horse racing properly conducted, and he is expected to give his full support to the Pascoag investigation.

Open the investigation wide and get all the facts.

Eagles Favored Over N. Y. U.

Supplying the only local college football attraction this week-end, Boston College will be favored to defeat New York University when the two eleven men under the lights at Fenway Park tonight.

Physically, the Eagles will not be up to par for tonight's tilt since the injury jinx has cropped up among several players. The most severe blow was that suffered by Eddie Cronin who suffered a fractured ankle and will be replaced by Charlie Englert at the quarterback post. Pete Boleyko, co-captain and guard, suffered an injured leg in the Harvard game but is sufficiently recovered to start tonight, while Lou Sammartino, the other guard, will watch the game from the sidelines and will probably be replaced by Bill Hogan who has been converted from center.

Don Meyers, 200-pound right guard, was injured in the Temple game last Saturday and is a doubtful starter. Meyers is discharged from the Marines and in the event that he doesn't start he will be replaced by Bernie Simons.

Yanks in Philly Ballroom

By HUCK FINNEGAN

Remember that old parlor game: "Button, Button, who's got that elusive piece of pearl?" Hard to locate, wasn't it? But no harder than the Boston Yanks. Go to Fenway Park to watch the pros practice, and you're told they're at Brookline ave. Go to Brookline ave., and the search may be fruitless. They may be at Boston College or St. Sebastian's in Newton. "Gypses" would be a more appropriate name for them than Yanks.

Today they had hoped to work out behind Fenway's temporary bleachers. But that was ruled out when it was learned New York U. planned a 2 p. m. workout before tonight's game with Boston College.

"We'll go to Brookline ave. and do the best we can," mused Kopf. "At least we'll get a good workout in Philadelphia tomorrow" (eve of the game with the Eagles at Shibe Park). But no sooner were the words out of his mouth than a telegram arrived from Shibe Park to wit: "Muhlenberg playing Villanova tomorrow night. Field not available for practice."

What was it, a league plot against the Yanks?

"Everybody take sneaker along," Kopf admonished. "We'll practice in the ballroom of the Ben Franklin."

That's his present plan. Honest! But suppose he finds the Amalgamated Garment Workers

Joe DiMaggio In Hospital

SAN FRANCISCO (Oct. 26) (AP) — S. Sgt. Joe DiMaggio, former New York Yankee outfielder, today was in a Hamilton Field hospital after being flown back from Hawaii "for medical observation and treatment," the Army announced.

The nature of his illness was not revealed by the Army, but previously published reports from Honolulu said he had been suffering from a stomach ailment. DiMaggio will remain at Hamilton Field until assigned to a general hospital, the Army said.

or the Dishwasher's Locals holding their annual Harvest Moon Ball. What then? Rope off a section of Broad st., probably.

Well, that's only one of the problems facing Kopf and his Yanks. There are others. Movies of the Yanks-Redskins game show many mistakes on the Yank part, particularly by the men who practice only once a week or not at all. It is difficult to correct mistakes by mail. Practice along makes perfection, and there will be no perfection in the ranks of the Yanks until the entire team can get together more often.

And there is the psychological angle. No question, the Redskins expected a setup here, and the Yanks caught them on their heels. The Eagles won't be caught flat-footed, however. They know the Yanks.

Scotty Gudmundson, behind Baugh and Filchok with the Redskins, was so anxious to play regularly that he tossed up a job as physical instructor with the FBI in Washington to come to Boston. He's 23 and married. He was more prominent as a baseball player in his native Utah than as a talker. He played on the Ogden team that won the Junior League championship at Stockton, Calif., in '37 and '38 and had offers to go with Oakland and Sacramento in the Coast League. However, sports scrivener Rex Gieves, back in Utah from his job in Washington, said George Washington U. to Scotty and off he trundled.

The Lost Weekend

Based on the powerful, best-selling, novel of five unforgettable days in a man's life

BY CHARLES JACKSON
ILLUSTRATIONS BY F. R. GRUGER

He had not eaten a bite—in how many days?

When he was well, she always threw him out.

He thought of them going up the dark aisle...

NOW IT came to Don suddenly that he had not eaten. He had eaten not a single bite of food since before Wick left—how many days ago? He was never able to eat when he was drinking; it was the last thing he ever thought of and the last thing he wanted. Was it possible to go so long without food and still be upright? He knew it was, it had happened many times.

But now a new thought possessed him. Agonizing though the long day would be, it was bound to end and darkness would fall. What did that mean? Delirium was a disease of the night; but, worse, delirium never came while you were drinking. Only after you had stopped. He had stopped and there was no way of starting again. Unable to go out, trapped here, what would tonight be like?

He recalled nothing of all the events of all the days since he had started drinking, the day Wick left. Each day's drinking had wiped out the day before—and who could understand the blessing of that? The blessing and sometimes the terror because of some dreadful deed perhaps...

Only one understood this—Helen. She knew he was not himself when drinking—not Don. When he turned up at her house drunk and asked her to marry him, she wouldn't listen. When he was well again, she threw him out.

The telephone was ringing but he was thinking of something else now and almost didn't hear it. He was thinking of the plays they had suddenly gone to on the spur of the moment and as suddenly got up and left, how he had talked all the way up town from the Village about what a gifted actress the star was, hadn't Helen seen her in "Sandwich" and "Spell-bound" or "Mariners"? hadn't she seen "Mariners" or God "They Knew What They Wanted." Lord what an artist, the greatest actress of our time...

And then at the play, his wandering attention, his increasing restlessness, his feeling that he would suffocate if he didn't get another drink at once, his suddenly having to get up and leave before the second act and Helen leaving, too, without a word, oh, she'd leave all right, of course she would leave, wasn't she afraid of his going out and getting started again, didn't that come before all the artists in the world?

And even as his anger rose (the two of them going up the dark aisle), his pity rose too, it was such a rotten shame that Helen couldn't once, just once, enjoy a play with him...
